

PERCEPTION POWER

a 2-day workshop based on international frameworks & methodologies

REVATHI TURAGA
International Trainer & Behavioral Coach

Perception is basically what we think of something, someone, a situation etc.

In organizations, people's actions are based on their perception of what truth is, not on the truth itself. For example – assessment of an employee's effort is a judgment subject to perceptual bias.

Perception can be important because it offers more than objective output. Perception also builds character that defines the different roles of individuals.

Perception affects things we experience in our daily lives too and it has an impact on the organizational process. If the employee's perceive the vision of the organization properly, they might start working towards it effectively.
